Previews for upcoming 2007-2008 season

by Jim 'Tech' Teckenbrock

For so many years we have been spoiled in this area during the winter sports seasons. We have seen so many great teams and athletes that we sometimes forget how much hard work and effort these student athletes put forth each and every year. The coaches, athletic departments, and administrators put in long hours and their efforts—too often—go unnoticed as well. I want to take this opportunity to thank all of you for your hard work and efforts, it is sincerely appreciated by all of us at WSPY Sports.

Girls basketball gets our winter sports seasons started every year. The new four class system in the IHSA, I believe, will pay dividends for some area teams right off the bat. Look for several teams to make strong runs during the regular season and in the post season as well. Last year Newark and Hinckley-Big Rock both won regionals, and both teams return several key players to their squads. Earlville-Leland and Indian Creek are always strong as well in the Little 10 it seems. The in-season Little 10 Tournament in mid January is always a lot of fun. Somonauk, Serena and all the other Little 10 teams always put on a great tournament. The I-8 has added an in-season tournament as well and Plano and Sandwich both will look forward to that again this season. All the areas other girls programs give all of us a chance to see some outstanding basketball action every season.

Wrestling has always been strong in several of our area schools. Sandwich and the sport of wrestling are synonymous. The Indians have continued to have very successful regular seasons, but the move to Class AA has been quite an adjustment in the post season. The Indians are poised this year to take that next step with the big schools. Plano of course had a tremendous state champion last season in Nick Nasti. The Reapers return several wrestlers this year and should have a good year. Kaneland has really come on lately in wrestling, and Oswego, and Oswego East have had some outstanding competitors. One program that has returned big time to the success of several years ago is the Yorkville Foxes. Look for the Foxes to be a factor not only in the Western Sun, but in other match ups as well. Somonauk is the only Little 10 school to offer wrestling on a full time basis. The Bobcats numbers continue to increase and their talent level as well have continued to improve as well.

The other wrestling programs as well as the ones I mentioned make our area one of the strongest areas around the state of Illinois.

Boys basketball, what a year this could be in 2007-2008. Serena had quite a year last year not only in the Little 10, but their regional championship team almost made it to the sectional finals. Newark was pretty young and Hinckley-Big Rock has a couple of their young talented players back as well. Somonauk returns most of their talented guards and their lower level teams have been strong in the last couple years, look for a strong Bobcats team this year. Plano and Sandwich are looking to move up in the strong I-8 Conference. What a year the Oswego East Wolves had in 2006-2007 they and the Oswego Panthers always give the rest of their Southwest Prairie Conference foes a run for their money. Yorkville and Kaneland are looking to move up in the Western Sun. Aurora Central is looking for another strong year and Aurora Christian should be strong again this year. Marmion will, have a new coach to lead them and are hoping for another winning season. East Aurora was a regional champion last year and the West Aurora Blackhawks are always tough. All the other area teams along with the ones I have mentioned give all of us a lot of great times each and every year.

Jim "Teck" Teckenbrock

I look forward to another fun-filled winter sports season. Tune in to WSPY FM 107.1 for game action, recaps and highlights every week all winter long. It is truly a pleasure and a privilege for me to cover all of our outstanding student athletes. Let the games begin!!!
